"The whole Fair was immensely enjoyable and productive, and the organisers and staff were friendly, helpful and always available. E-mail communications were efficient from the moment of booking the stand, information was readily available and everything was taken care of and made easy for the artist. The promotion and marketing was faultless as the resulting numbers attending testified. I enjoyed the fair very much and made some good contacts, thanks very much for fantastic organisation and promotion and a good café."

Colin Merrin - Stand A50

"One of the best art fairs I've been involved with. A well located venue with pretty much everything going according to plan. The stands were excellent and the standard of work throughout was of very good quality. The consistent flow of people through the doors all through the weekend was particularly impressive and good to see there was plenty of champagne at the private view. I sold well at the fair but I've sold more since, as people have contacted me afterwards to buy paintings. I also had interest from two galleries. Regarding booking the same stand for next year; yes please."

Jennie Ing - Stand E37

"The Untitled Artists Fair this year, its first year, was a big investment for me to undertake being fairly new to selling my work, but it paid off. I'm a printmaker selling limited edition prints which aren't highly priced. I sold 17 pieces over the weekend with another sale followed up afterwards. I covered my costs, and went into profit, so I was well pleased. With queues of up to 45 minutes on the preview night I found the atmosphere overall lively, and I had loads of favourable comments about my work and interest from two galleries which I have now followed up, leaving work with them, and a further lead of a possible show in a city bank, and a probability of leaving work with a further gallery. You gave me some good advice when I was booking about making money selling prints. Approaches have also been made through my details being on the Untitled website, and I found the camaraderie and networking with other artists invaluable as always at art fairs. It was definitely my best experience at fairs to date and I will be back next year."

Sally Bamber - Stand E15

"The report back to me from my colleague has been a surprising one. This has been an event to advertise my work, spread my potential client base and make new contacts - this has been achieved, including an enquiry from a gallery and potential commission of a portrait. I have sold three works too. It has also enabled me to hear the positive and unique comments from visitors, both directly and indirectly. I will seriously consider doing it again. I think your achievement here is considerable in terms of communication to artists and promotion of the artists and the event. Chris and I have put together intense conferences very recently and have an understanding of what work you have put in on our behalf. My congratulations and thanks."

Rosy James - Stands A28, A30 & E1

"The number of visitors exceeded expectations, all giving very positive feedback about the event and the standard of work, creating an exciting atmosphere and putting the Untitled Art Fair on the map as something not to be missed."

Emma Coyle - Stand A9

Izabela Kaliszewska - Stand E18

I was given the immense pleasure of being one of the 177 artists who were invited to take part in the Untitled Artists Fair. I exhibited my paintings there and was one of the artists who sold their artwork. It was a pleasurable 3 days during which I discovered a new doorway into the world of art and people who love it and work around it. The bustling, artistic atmosphere in the Chelsea Old Town Hall was magnified by the immense number of visitors on the first day of the Fair. I had an opportunity to converse with potential buyers, fellow artists and art admirers and speak about my work. I also met many people from International Galleries, of whom some showed interest in my style of work."

Charles Borrell - Stand B28

The Untitled Artists Fair was an Experience that I was privileged to be part of. The atmosphere blessed by the Gods and with sales, Gallery interest and Client response.... I can't wait for the next event! Yia Mas!! [To Our Health].

Gail Bolliger - Stand A52

The turnout of the Fair was excellent. The atmosphere was exciting, the interest was so encouraging. I felt I had received the recognition for my work that I had wished for by the tremendous feedback. I made one good sale and one possible. I am interested for next year; however I would like to make a bid for the two stands adjacent to mine. I would like to have A50 and A51.

Alison Rankin - Stand A6

Very well organised and well attended fair, I had lots of interest in my work and made good sales at the time and have also subsequently received a very good commission for two paintings. I am looking forward to next year's fair."

Juliet Eardley - Stand A11

Robert delivered; Opening Friday Night - queues were round the corner of fashion-conscious-the-place-to-be Chelsea. During the rest of Untitled Fair punters streamed through buying or musing, there was never a dull moment.

Peter Wait - Stand A47

Congratulations! I was most impressed with the organisation and success of the Chelsea Old Town Hall Artists Fair 2008. Calm in its preparation but a buzz of interest and excitement during the event itself. May it long continue.

"I would like to thank you and your team for all the hard work you put in for the Untitled Artists Fair! Even though there were a few teething problems I felt it was an overall success! It was very beneficial for me in many ways [sales, contacts, feedback] and I would like to book a stand for the next Art Fair! Thanks again for all your help and support.

Quentin Reynolds - Stand F4

Having recently completed my first art works I was lucky to come across an advert for the Untitled Artist Fair at Chelsea Town Hall. Following a discussion with the event organisers. I was able to secure a space that suited both my work and my limited budget. The fair was a great success for me; I made my first sale and have been commissioned for works by contacts made at the fair. The event was well run and the organisation faultless, I will be looking forward to returning in 2009.

Laila Shour - Stand B8 & E2

Edith Laier - Visitor

I had never bought any works of art before; however, at the Untitled Artists Fair at the Chelsea Town Hall I couldn't resist and bought my first ever original drawing. The prices were very reasonable as artists didn't have to pay commission to the organiser and could afford to sell their work more cheaply than they would at other fairs. There was a huge variety of art catering for all tastes and pockets. In fact, my friend was so impressed that she went back the following day to buy a painting she had seen.

Jan Dingle - Stand B9

"I think the marketing was tremendous and well done with it."

Menna Agharad - Stand B14

"An interesting and enjoyable event. The turnout of visitors was impressive, almost too many at times! The atmosphere was friendly and supportive among the artists showing and it was good to meet members of the public who were interested in our work. I've had several subsequent enquiries showing interest in my painting."
